

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system and method, implemented within an email client and/or server, for selectively applying delivery options to addressees in an email includes displaying an address book, choosing addressees from the address book, setting a flag indicating that more than one addressee has been chosen, displaying an email delivery options selection window if the flag is set, selectively applying delivery options to each of the addressees, and sending the email.

Document #: 1137633 v.1